WHEREAS, in the recent case of SPARK, et.al vs. Quezon City Government, et. al. (G.R. No. 225442 dated August 8, 2017, En Banc), the Supreme Court declared that "... grave and overriding considerations of public interest justify restrictions even if made against fundamental rights. Specifically, on the freedom to move from one place to another, jurisprudence provides that this right is not absolute. As the 1987 Constitution itself reads, the State may impose limitations on the exercise of this right, provided that they: (1) serve the interest of national security, public safety, or public health; and (2) are provided by law."
