WHEREAS, Republic Act No. 8042, otherwise known as "The Migrant Workers and Overseas Filipinos Act of 1995", as amended by Republic Act No. 10022, recognizes and values the important role of the Local Government Unit in providing a higher standard and protection of the welfare of migrant workers, their families and overseas Filipinos in distress and for other purpose;

WHEREAS, Section 11, Article II of the 1987 Philippine Constitution states that the State values the dignity of every human person and guarantees full respect for human rights;

WHEREAS, Article 13 of the 1987 Philippine Constitution mandates that the state shall afford full protection to labor, local and overseas, organized and unorganized, and promote full employment opportunities for all;

WHEREAS, Section 1 (a), Article 13 of the 1987 Philippine Constitution states that the enactment of measures that protect and enhance the right of the people to human dignity, reduce social, economic, and political inequalities, and remove cultural inequities shall be given highest priority;

WHEREAS, migrant labor is often used as a cyclical buffer, like other macroeconomic policies aimed at maximizing growth and minimizing unemployment. For migrants, this means they are often the last to be hired and the first to be fired and their employment relationship are frequently sub-standard, and located in poorly-regulated sectors or activities. In times of economic security, migrants easily become scapegoats, leading further to attitudes that breed xenophobic sentiments and discriminatory practices against them;

WHEREAS, undocumented migrants are the most vulnerable among migrants as they are practically denied of their basic human rights because of their irregular immigration status. They are vulnerable to abuses, are paid lower salaries, and have no benefits. They also lack job security and risk not getting their salaries and benefits when arrested, detained and deported. In 2007, an estimated number of undocumented Filipinos overseas, or those with irregular immigration status reached 900,023, slightly higher than the previous year's 870,000. The United States was the top destination for irregular OFWs, followed by Malaysia. As reported by the Philippine Embassy to Congress, Singapore registered the highest increase in 2007 as 75% of Filipino workers who left for abroad are undocumented, outpacing France, and the United Arab Emirates; A

WHEREAS, around 21 million people around the world fall victims to human trafficking. In the Philippines alone, based on 2012 Department of Social Welfare and Development report, there were 1,376 human trafficking victims as of February 2015. This figure does not include those in many unreported cases;

WHEREAS, according to the 2014 Global Slavery Index (GSI), the Philippines ranks first among Asian countries in terms of government response to modern servitude, including human trafficking, forced labor, and slavery, with an above-average rating in the entire Asia Pacific region;

WHEREAS, the desire for overseas employment is a point of vulnerability which human trafficking syndicates capitalize on. In its 2014 Trafficking In Persons Report, the United States (US) State Department said "a significant number of the estimated 10 million Filipino men, women, and children who migrate abroad for skilled and unskilled work are subsequently subjected to sex trafficking and forced labor";

WHEREAS, according to the Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) there are about 88 Filipinos facing death penalty abroad, mostly in China and Malaysia, for various crimes including drug trafficking. Migrant International's data are even higher, with 123 OFWs on death row, and at least 7,000 OFWs in jails abroad;

WHEREAS, according to the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration (POEA) there were some 2.2 million OFWs in 2013 and personal remittances from OFWs increased to some $27 billion last year from $25 billion in 2013, based on data from the Central Bank;

WHEREAS, according to the 2015 Overseas Worker Welfare Administration (OWWA) Report, Quezon City has recorded One Hundred Three Thousand Two Hundred Twenty Six (103,226) migrant workers abroad; ✕ △ ⊂
